DAILY LEADER, HORRIBLE WIFE-MURDER

A Woman Killed in Bedford by Her Pseudo-Husband.

LOVE, BIGAMY AND MURDER. Dr. J. W. Hughes the Oriminal. He Kills Her "Out of Pure Love."

HE IS ARRESTED AND LODGED IN JAIL

The village of Bedford was thrown into stense excitement yesterday afternoon, in nsequence of the shooting dead of a wonan of that place by a Doctor of this city, John W. Hughes, who had, some eighteer nonths since, enticed her to Pittsburgh and married her, and from whom she had parted on the discovery that he had another wife iving. The circumstances of the marriage, the parting, the arrest and lodgment in the Penitentiary last fall, were published in our columns. He persuaded this woman of Bedford, named Tamsey Parsons, to go to Pittsburgh, where he married her. In a fow weeks she learned that he had a wife and three children. She immediately informed her friends, and through their in rumentality Dr. H. was arrested, tried or bigamy and sent to the Penitentiary. she came back to her friends in Bedford where she has since lived. Dr. Hughes was pardoned last March, when he returned to this city, opened an office on Ontario street, and resumed the eractice of medicine. He sent his former wife back to the Isle of Man several weeks ago. Since her departure he has been tryhis house. She has positively and repeatedly refused.

On Tuesday night he left the city in a earriage, with Oscar S. Russell, keeper of the New York Lunch Saloon under Moore's old auction store on Ontario street, and was old anction store on Ontario street, and was driven by a man named Ori Carr. They have maintained their organizations who have maintained their organizations during left at ten o'clock, and arrived at Newburg the years of war through which we have at midnight. Staying at the Cataract House an hour or two, he left, telling the landlord he was going over to Bedford to amputate a limb, and would be back in a few hours. They put up at a hotel in the latter place, and about ten o'clock yesterday morning, Dr. H. walked to the home of Miss Parsons. He sought an officers of law to see that the laws against interesting powers and product of the will be will be with the law and the laws against the control of the policy and the policy and everywhere, to elect the officers of law to see that the laws against the policy are the policy and the policy and the policy and the policy and the policy are the policy and the policy are the policy and the policy and the policy are the policy and the policy and the policy are the policy are the policy and the policy are t interview, but she told him to go away, as she wished and would have nothing to do with him. It should be stated here, perhaps, that he pressed his suit upon her about a week ago with much force and persistency, and that he went into a towerng passion on her refusal to comply with his wishes, and even threatened to take her life if she would not yield. She grew alarmed, and told him she would have him arrested if he did not leave and abandon his suit.

He told her that he would give her so much time in which to decide whether she would again live with him, and then he rejoined his companions and spent several hours, drinking. About two o'clock in the afternoon he went to the house again, and took up his station in the garden. Not dreaming that he was on the promises and lost by one majority on the substitute was lost.

A motion to lay the substitute upon the table was amended by the insertion of a clause after the words "pledged temperance men," to read, "and they will use their influence in all primary meetings to secure the nomination of such men."

He approached and asked if she would go home with him. She shook her head in refusal, when, "they" say, he exclaimed, "Good-bye, Tamsey, we will meet in another world," and fired, the ball taking effect in the back cord of the neck. She whoeled round and he fired a second time, the shot lodging in the back of her head, causing nstant death.

When the deed was done, the murderer ran to the road, where it seems the carriage se in waiting. He jumped in, and driver Carr says that the Doctor, drew his revolver on him and threatened to kill him it hadid not drive as he directed. They dashed down the road towards Newburgh. on the Canal road, but were followed by a oldier and a Mr. Haines, the brother-inlaw of the murdered woman, who was chiefly instrumental in the prosecution of the Doctor in Pittsburg. The latter had pressed a couple of horses into the service and gave such hot pursuit, that when out bout a mile from the village, Dr. H. imped from the carriage, and made for a thicket in an adjoining field. The pursuers thought this a blind, and kept on after the vehicle, which they finally overtook, and discovered their mistake. The soldier got into the carriage, and dreve Carr and Russell back to Bedford, prisoners of war. Meantime scores of the village folks were out in pursuit. Detachments were sent to guard all the byroads, while the rest of the party scoured he field in which the murdererwas supposed to be lying concealed. It was a lot, part woodland or thicket, and part medow, and was quite a tangle. After a search of two or three hours, Constable Wells discovered the Doctor lying beside a log in the high grass, fast saleep. He called to him, and after a time roused him. He ordered him o surrender, which he accordingly did without the alightest show of resistance. giving up a revovler and knife. He was corted by a strong guard to Bedford, who had much difficulty in keeping the infuriated citizens from lynching the murderer on the spot. The Doctor was put in the carriage he set out in from this city, and brought here by lotective Thomas McKinetry and Mr. Anirews,-Mr. McKinstry having been sumnoned there by a telegram sent at 20'clock, corted by the Constable and several men of Bedford. He conversed freely about the natter. On Mr. Andrews observing that it was a sorry piece of business, he said: "No, went out there on purpose to kill her, and am glad of it. I killed her out of pure love. If I could have killed Haines, I should feel perfectly satisfied," or words to that effect. The prisoner arrived here about seven 'clock last night, and was locked up in the ounty jail. Russell and Carr were brought in on a freight train, three-quarters of an hour later, and were also committed to jail We need not add one word of comment The facts speak for themselves. The trial of the prisoners will reveal all.

We presume that the account as given sere, though from the lips of parties present at the scene, will be somewhat varied by subsequent statements, but the general sketch is correct.

THE A. & G. W. BAILWAY .- By the report of the Atlantic and Great Western Railway Company just published, it appears that the aggregate earnings for 1864 were $335,491 .-77; working expenses, $2,025,204.79, leaving a balance of $1,210,288 98 to be applied to construction, right of way, rents, dividends, &c. The total number of barrels of petroleum carried over the road was 675,-028. The number of passengers carried over the road from Meadville was 53,048. These figures are for 1864. The present year shows an enormous increase in the passenger traffic as compared with last year. The number of passengers each month from Meadville, is double that of the corresponding months of last year.

DISTINGUISHED THAVELLERS .- Malone, Petit & Co. received a telegram vesterday from Detroit, stating that Gen. Grant and party would take passage on the steamer Ironsides at that city, for Lake Superior. The people who engaged state rooms on this splendid steamer for the present trip, may well congratulate themselves on their good fortune in being associated with so distinguished a party for ten or twelve days. THE NATION."-An effort is being made to extend the already large circulation of this now weekly in this city and vicinity. and Mr. J. B. Gribbe, agent for the Independent, has been appointed general agent for this purpose. He is now canvassing the city for subscriptions, and we feel sure that he will be very successful, for people of thought and taste have but to look at the prospectus of this journal, to be convinced of its high character. It will be devoted to the discussion of the political and social questions of the day; the illustration and maintainance of true domestic principles; the consideration of the condition of the freed people, and the duty of the Republic in their regard; the support of popular education for the political advantage of the State; the enlightenment of the public on the progress and prospects of the South, material and otherwise; and to sound and impartial criticism of books and works of chair. art-organ of no party, sect or body-polit-

We are convinced that no better weekly journal than The Nation is published in this country. Every intelligent family should have it. It is held at three family should have it. It is held at three iness, and the party reached London withdollars per annum, a price which brings it easily within reach of nearly all. Let Mr.

A SOLDIER SHOT DEAD .- A soldier of the 10th Ohio Cavalry, named Alexander Miller, bugler of Co. C, was shot dead about midnight of Tuesday, in the saloon of Charles Fisher, No. 82 Water street, by the bar-tender, Charles Myers. The circumstances are briefly, these: Miller, with several of his discharged comrades and friends, went into the saloon, where he had been boarding, to taken drink. Myers asked him what he would take, when Miller said he would take a glass of ice water, whereupon Myers replied in a playful way that he should not have any ice water in that house that night. Miller replied that he guessed he would, inasmuch as he had a revolver, when Myers reminded him that the revolver was behind the counter in his care. He took it up and was handling it, when Miller said that it was of no account and couldn't shoot is light and the market quiet.

The wife was telegraphed vesterday morning, and it was expected she would arrive here last night to take the body home for burial. Coroner Prentice held an inquest on the corpse yesterday. The jury returned a unless the nation is aroused to throw off the verdict, in substance: Deceased came to his death by the accidental discharge of a pistol in the hands of Churles Myers.

PRESENTATION .- A pleasant offsir came of at Tom Elwood's saloon on Bank street yesterday afternoon, on the occasion of the presentation of an elegant silver tos service, valued at $390, to Colonel Sanderson, of the 10th O. V. C. The service, consisting of a tray and six pieces, all of elaborate workmanship, which, by the way, were bought at Crittenden's, were presented to the Colopel in a neat little speech by Chaplain Clark, of that regiment. He said the officers of the regiment desired to give him some proof of their gratitude for the kindnees he had always shown them. The Colonel replied in a fitting strain, thanking the officers most sincerely and feelingly fo that mark of their approbation of his cours and their feeling of respect and good will. The tray bears this inscription : Presented > Thomas W. Banderson, Colonel 18th O. V. C., By the Officers of the Regiment. Cleveland, Ohio, August 9, 1865.

Each of the other pieces will bear the simple initial S. A committee was appointed, consisting Colonel Sanderson, Majora Philkins and Stration and Captain Allen, to present, by letter, to Lieutenant Colonel William E Haines, formerly an officer of the regiment, an elegant gold watch worth $200, in case he did not arrive in the city during the evening. The Colonel, however, made his appearance at eight o'clock last night, and was presented with the watch by Col. Banderson, in behalf of the officers of the 10th cavalry, as a testimonial of respect. Both sffairs passed off very pleasantly, and were a fitting fifth act to the last interview of the officers of this gallant regiment.

Digo.-In Twinsburg, on the 5th inst., Lewis Alling, aged sixty years. In the death of Mr. Alling, Twinsburg has lost one of its oldest and most estimable citizens. He was born in New Haven, Ct. in 1805, and came to Ohio with his parents in 1817, and, with them, settled in Twinsburg amonat the very first white inhabitants of the township. He has therefore been a witness of, or an active participator in all, the public affairs of the town from Yesterday morning, while it was yet early, Thirty-six years ago he married Miss Huldah Wilcox, who still survives him in great ing several beds, got up and went down, years ago he made a public profession of leaving the door of the room unlocked. Eight Hours or Lanon Pan Day .-- Mr. Wm. Swinton, of Philadelphia, a prominent member of the International Union of Machinists and Blacksmiths of North America, arrived here vesterday, and exber, and gave him into the custody of two pressed a desire to address the Association of Machinists and Blacksmiths of this city. An impromptu meeting was accordingly called, and several hundred craftemen gathered last night in National Hall to lis ten to what Mr. Swinton might have to communicate. B. L. Smith was appointed President and P. Van Way, Secretary.

The speaker dwelt upon the three main objects of the Association, viz: The passage of an apprenticeship law for the protection of American workmanship against the sham work of quacks and irresponsible men. II. Co-operation, showing the benefits to be derived from association, and claiming that it would destroy the antagonism between espital and labor, &c., &c. III. The reduction of the working day to eight hours. We have not time or room to give a report of his remarks. The argument he made, though somewhat fanciful in certain particulars, was candid and given in the right spirit. His positions were by no means new, nor his argument startling.

IDENTIFIED .- A man named A. A. Gran ger, seeing the account of finding the soldier, Patrick Gerraghan, dead on the Toledo train, which was published in our last issue, went to Howland's undertaker shop resterday morning, and on looking at the corpse, said he knew the man, and believed his brother lives in New York State. He immediately sent a telegram to Church ville, New York, and received this dispatch:

CHURCHVILLE, N. Y., Aug. 9. A. A. Grunger: Bend body of Patrick Garraghan to Wm. Garraghan at Churchville. P. V. Hawkey, Agt. Am. Exp. Co. The ladies of the Aid Society intended to send the remains last night. THE LONDON (C. W.) CIVIC . HOLIDAY .-The London Prototype, in speaking of the recent excursion of her citizens to our city, has the following:

At 3 P. M. the party landed safely at Cleveland, when all found a way to interest themselves in visiting friends, viewing the sights and inspenting the city. The street cars were in general requisition, and by their chesp trips th warted the extortionate demands of cables, who modesity asked $4 an hour for services. After a tour of the city, the excursionists returned to the boat, and at 8 P. M. the party were on their jour-ney homeward. The band, as the docks were cleared, played "Hail Columbia." The return journey, by moonlight, was pleasant; dancing was for a while contin-ued in the cabin, but ultimately the influence of Morpheus became provalent, and many retired to rest. Before reaching Port Stanley, a general muster of the excursion-ists took place in the gentlemen's cabin, when John Burrell, Esq , was called to the chair.

A vote of thanks was passed to Captain Kelly, commanding the steamer, for the marked courtesy to every member of the party on board of his boat, carried, with "For he's a jolly good fellow," and cheer-Messrs, Burrell, Hope and Partridge were
